7 July 1922 - Isaac P. January died. He was a descendant of Abraham, born in the vicinity of Riga, Russia, emigrated to the United States as a young man entered the mercantile business, and was a long time member of the clothing house of January & Bros. Coming young to this country, he soon learned the language, and grew to be one of the substantial citizens of the city. Quiet in manner, peaceable in disposition, a good neighbor, and numbered his friends by the score, not only among his people but among the citizens of the section in general. He was a member of several orders, and they attended his funeral in a body.
